

Email genetree@pacific.net.au for a copy.

Taking Lib-erties

In the lead-up to this year's council elections, it seems both the Labor and Liberal parties are in disarray. A recent article in EHW ("Groups eye councillors' seats", June 4-10) had some of our readers thinking we were equally confused, making Libs of Labor party members. Just to clarify, the reference to potential candidate Leigh Johns' politics as "right leaning" did not mean he was aligned with the Liberal Party in any way. He's actually from the same ALP faction as councillor Darren Ray. Unchain St Kilda had said it wasn't keen on backing him as a candidate because it thought he would toe the party line on the St Kilda Triangle development.